

Tales from the brotherhood

Blood is thicker than water. So very true. On Wednesday, Sohail Khan took up the cudgels for brother Salman Khan. At the opening of Gold's gym in suburbs, he was badgered with questions on the fatwa issued against Salman.

Sohail speak

For the first time, a member of the Khan family responded to that. Sohail said, "I personally don't believe in such stuff. Our family is very secular. We've got Hindus and Christians in our family. I see nothing wrong in it."

Meanwhile, buzz was that Sohail's son Nirvaan injured himself at home and the actor almost didn't make it to the event, much to the chagrin of the press.

However, he walked in late, honouring his commitment. Bytes done, he promptly rushed back home to be with his injured son.
